Welcome to The Selkirk Arms

Hello! I'm Chris Walker and my wife Sue and I have been the owners of The Selkirk Arms for 15 years. We feel proud to own this historic building and be part of the history of Kirkcudbright's famous High Street.

We met whilst working for Trusthouse Forte in the early 80s at The Old England in Windermere, before taking a leap of faith to own and run our own hotel. Our previous ventures have included The Creebridge House Hotel in Newton Stewart and The Masonic Arms in Gatehouse of Fleet. We have lived in Dumfries and Galloway for 32 years and couldn't think of anywhere more lovely to live and work.

We love welcoming both old and new faces to The Selkirk Arms and our ethos has remained the same throughout the years - if you arrive as a stranger, we like to make sure that you leave as our friends.

Stargazing

Galloway Forest Park is Europe's second Dark Sky Park, and the first of its kind in the UK. Dark Sky Parks are places which experience low or practically non-existent levels of light pollution, revealing ink-black skies filled with dazzling stars.

We run stargazing weekends here at The Selkirk Arms that include talks and trips to the new Dark Sky Planetarium in Kirkcudbright and the Galloway Dark Sky Park. We are joined by top Scottish Astronomer Steve Owens of the Glasgow Science Centre for a fascinating insight into our night skies.
